In Judging a Bank

Always remember that it is Capital and Surplus that give security to the depositor. Capital and Surplus stand between the depositor and any possible loss of shrinkage in the securities held by the bank. The Capital and Surplus of this bank amount to $260,000.00, a margin of safety that assures absolute security for every dollar entrusted to us.

Chickasha Should Respond to Call of Captain of College

G. W. Austin has demonstrated that he is a capable captain of the educational ship which bears the name, Oklahoma College for Women. Under his command the vessel has been steadily pushing forward. In other words, dropping all figurative language, Mr. Austin has been delivering the goods. "The proof of the pudding is in the eating," and the proof of President Austin's efficiency is in the splendid results he has produced. All know how the institution has grown under his management.

The fact of the matter is that Mr. Austin knows his business. He is not only an educator but also an executive—a business man, if you please, who puts business methods into the handling of the many problems that confront him as the manager of an educational institution. Every man specializes in matters pertaining to his own business and hence knows what it takes to make it a success better than the man engaged in any other line of business can know. Mr. Austin's specialty is that of a college manager and we have every reason to believe that he is an expert in his line.

As citizens of Chickasha, all of us are vitally interested in the progress of the college. We are beginning to learn what it means to the town in a business way and what its possibilities are. It requires no argument to convince anybody concerning the benefits that will accrue to Chickasha when this institution shall have enrolled a thousand or more students. Now Mr. Austin, as the captain of the college and the leader in the campaign for its development, knows how to go about the achievement of the objects at which he aims. He knows more about this than any of the rest of us and when he issues a call for action it is up to us to respond. At the present time he is asking the citizens of Chickasha for funds with which to conduct an advertising campaign this summer. As a business man, Mr. Austin knows that publicity is an absolute essential at all times for the development of such an institution and he proposes to spend about $700 for that purpose, or about the same amount that was spent last summer. That our people will respond cheerfully to his call, we feel certain. Since he came here Mr. Austin has spent his own money freely for this purpose, probably contributing ten times as much to the advertising fund as any other individual in the town, and it would seem that the citizens should not permit him to outdo them in liberality for such a cause.

President Austin believes the advertising which he is now launching will accomplish more good for the school than any that has ever before been done. With the legislature meeting next winter and the request that will be made for appropriations for additional buildings, unquestionably it is a time for us to let the college light shine as brilliantly as possible. No time should be lost in passing the hat and every citizen should come across promptly with his share of the needed funds. "Capt." Austin has called and our duty is plain.

CHICKASHA IS LOSER.

Good men make a good town. When we say "good" men, we mean all that the term implies, not merely "good-goody," but upright, virile, courageous, useful men who perform all the obligations incumbent upon them as members of society.

Of such a character is a man whom we are soon to lose from Chickasha by reason of the resignation of Rev. G. Lyle Smith as pastor of the First Christian church. We do not belong to Bro. Smith's denomination, in fact our own views relative to religious matters are radically different from those held by him, but we feel that we are a part of his flock and we believe this feeling is shared by a large number of our people many of whom own an ecclesiastical allegiance except to the "big church."

Measured by every standard, Bro. Smith is a man among men as well as a minister of the gospel who labors faithfully and effectively for the cause in which his life is dedicated. As a preacher he is broad-minded, clear-cut in his thinking, forceful and polished in form of address, and his sermons embody the fruits of ripe scholarship, at the same time reflecting the experience of a man who wisely evaluates life issues and problems.

Widely read in the realms of history, theology, philosophy and pure literature, Bro. Smith is a preacher of today, progressive and practical in dealing with all questions that confront a minister. Far from being narrowly sectarian, he possesses the spirit of charity and toleration which marks the man who thinks deeply, and his range of sympathies is inclusive of all classes of humanity.

Unostentatious, devoid of bigotry and conceit, never playing to the galleries, Bro. Smith preaches a wholesome gospel and through his strong and kindly personality exercises an influence that is helpful to all with whom he comes in contact. Chickasha will lose a consecrated minister, a splendid citizen and a potent agent in the promotion of all things that pertain to the uplift of the community when he leaves us.

EXPRESS PACKETTES.

Raving Rhymester Grows Worse.
Oh, Gentle June, I like your showers
And just adore your pretty flowers,
But best of all the things you bring,
Your wispome brides I blithely sing.

Always it is the other fellow who is a reckless driver.

Better notify the next carnival company that it must bring along a color line.

St. Simp says he notices that the louder it thunders the more noise it makes.

And occasionally you will find a woman who doesn't raise hand over her husband chewing tobacco.

But the noise in Chicago will be considerably louder if the Moose and the elephant get into a scrap.

Naturally a little argument resulted when a Chickasha woman put it up to her husband to pay for his own birthday presents.

We want Bro. Courtney to understand that we resent his insinuation. We take one regularly nearly every Saturday night.

Another good way for Chickasha to get into the limelight is to advance the clock. Who will second the motion to save daylight?

At the present moment we are unable to state definitely whether both the British and the Germans won the big naval battle. It is possible that both are lying about it.

In a card to the Packetter, M. F. Courtney hits back, saying, "I notice the inference in your paper that a bath was all I needed. Not wishing to be personal, will simply state that there are others."

Will somebody please break the news gently to W. W. Hollister that Myron Humphrey was seated as a delegate at Chicago and the Harristites came out second best? Take a bottle of smelling salts with you.

Opening of the Fishing Season.

A gentleman was strolling across a large estate when he came upon a man fishing.

"What sort of fish do you catch here," he asked.

"Mostly trout," replied the man.

"How many have you caught?"
"About 10 or 12, sir."

"What is about the heaviest you caught?" continued the questioner.

"Well, I don't know the weight, but the water sank two or three feet when I pulled it out."—From the Pittsburgh Telegraph.

BOWEL COMPLAINTS IN INDIA.

In a lecture at one of the Des Moines, Iowa, churches a missionary from India told of going into the interior of India, where he was taken sick, that he had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with him and believed that it saved his life. This remedy is used successfully in India both as a preventative and cure for cholera. You may know from this that it can be depended upon for the milder forms of bowel complaint that occur in this country. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv. d&w
